Wednesday, February 27, 2013

Students and staff at Mississippi State University are welcome to join African American Studies on its Third Annual Educational Tour. This year, the tour will travel to historic Philadelphia, MS, a place that was central to the national Civil Rights Movement. You'll be directed by a tour guide throughout Philadelphia, and will visit some of its historic civil rights sites. You will visit City Hall, and meet Philadelphia's first African American Mayor. All of this is FREE to you, but you must register now to claim your seat. Seating is limited, and will be assigned in the order of registration. Plan to spend your day with us; lunch will be provided.

To claim your seat, please complete the form below. Deliver your completed form to the African American Studies Office in 287 Bowen Hall. You will notified by email on your registration.
